LIQUOR ORDINANCE GOES OVER AGAIN

Jocular in Making Suggestions About It.

MARTIN MAKES ATTACK ON TWO PETITIONS

Rights on Third West Street: Other Matters.

Councilman Stewart's liquor ordinance was put to sleep for another veck, pending the adjournment of the legislature, and the budget was shoved | lungs, superinduced by a dose of strychalong another seven days at Monday night's session of the city council, as | tent at an early hour last Friday morn was anticipated. The formal action on the budget was to send it back to the apportionment committee, presumably for a little trimming, upon motion of Mr. Fernstrom.

Mr. Holley jocularly suggested that the liquor ordinance be turned over to the liquor ordinance be turned ever to the fire and police commission proposed in the bill introduced in the legislature to confiscate the city's property to the state. Mr. Hall declared the measure a good one and strenuously objected to further delay in its passage. Mr. Stewart and Mr. Fernstrom said there has been lots of noise in the legislature about liquor legislation, with little or 'nothin' doin'.' and insisted that the ordinance sleep another week at least. When the street committee's recom-

McConaughy, of the real estate firm of Bothwell & McConaughy, and fourteen other property owners for the opening of Tenth East street, between Eighth and Ninth South streets, he denied, Mr. Martin made one of the most vicious, open attacks upon the real estate firm ever heard on the flour of the council chamber.

Street Dedicated.

The street has been opened and dedicated to the city for a width of eight rods for approximately that distance. For the rest of the distance to Eighth South street the thoroughfare is only three rods wide, and to make it the required width for the remainder of the distance condemnation proceedings of distance condemnation proceedings of two rods of property owned by Albert Spears would be necessary, it is claimed. The petitioners, in their request for the opening of the street, asked the city to institute such proceedings, offering to pay the cost.

opening of the street, asked the city to institute such proceedings, offering to pay the cost.

The city has no right to condemn property for street purposes, Mr. Martin set up, and declared that three or four years ago Spears had offered to give four rods of his property for street purposes if the other property owners affected, chief among whom were Bothwell & McConaughy, would donate their share for the proposed extension of the street through the block bounded on the north by Eighth South and on the south by Ninth South. To this Bothwell & McConaughy had not consented, but had gone ahead and built houses within the block along the line of the extension of East Teuth East street on a three-rod alley. The city can accept only a four-rod alley, avenue or street, Mr. Martin contends. To induce the purchase of houses in the narrow alley Bothwell & McConaughy had falsely represented to customers that the dwellings were structed on a public street, Mr. Martin asserted, and he declared that scores of other land agents are doing the same thing.

Mr. Black rose to the defense of the

Mr. Black rose to the defense of the real estate firm and showed that it now owns only two houses and lots that would be affected by the proposed opening of the street. This aroused Mr. Martin's anger more deeply, if possible, and he made a second vicious attack upon Bothwell & McConaughy, after which the committee report was laid over a week upon Mr. Hall's motion. The Salt Lake & Ogden Railway com-

The Salt Lake & Ogden Railway company evinced its desire to get in the swim with the Oregon Short Line and the Utah Light & Railway companies for street rights on Third West street, by coming in with an application for a franchise to lay a spur of track on that thoroughfare from South Temple to approximately Fourth South street, a distance of four blocks.

The petition went to the municipal laws and streets committees. The proposed franchise has been expected for some time. The motive back of it is the railway company's desire to protect itself with a right of way up town when the electrification of the line is consummated. Mr. Bamberger now holds an agreement with the street railway company to get up town over its from for its line of track along that thoroughfare from South Temple to 156 feet beyond Second South.

In spite of the council's freely expressed bitterness against the Oregon Short Line on account of the footbridge along South Temple street, it very graciously granted the company's application for a franchise along Third West street. If the Salt Lake & Ogden Railway company's franchise is granted Third West street will be lined with three tracks for several blocks.

The application of the Salt Lake & Los Angeles Railway company for a renewal of its franchise from Second South and Third West to First South and Fourth West streets, and thence west along First South, to the city limits, came un for discussion, but went back to the committee with a strong probability that the company will have to agree to pave the streets it traverses to agree to pave the streets it traverses from early to early before the fran-chise will be granted.

WORK STOPS ON SEWER EXTENSION

ENGINEER KELSEY TELLS HIS SIDE OF MATTER

Finally Passed Up to Engineer- But Little Doubt, Homes ing Department for Its

Work has again been stopped on sewer extension 182, in the southwestern part of the city; in fact, it came to an end almost as soon as it began this last time. The trouble is with the intercepting sewer, which is filled up with sand and gravel in the neighborbood of Sixth South and Seventh West streets to such an extent as to back the water up into the trenches for the sewer lateral so that the extension cannot be laid in accordance with the plans and specifications of the contract, requiring the trenches to be free from

The work on the extension was called in by the board of public works Saturday noon, and Monday evening the board sent a communication to the city council setting out the discontinuance of the work and the reason, and asking that somebody be authorized to remove the obstruction from the intercepting sewer so that the work on sewer lateral 182 may be proceeded with. Simultaneously, George H. Raybould, councilman from the Second ward, forwarded

Upon Mr. Hall's motion, the city engineer was ordered to remove the obstruction from the main sewer at an expense of not to exceed $300, thus throwing the proposition of caring for the sewer where it belongs and should have gone a year ago, only Mr. Stewart voting nay. Mr. Davis being absent; but this action left the question of who is to blame for the stoppage of the sewer unanswered. sewer unanswered.

What Engineer Says.

The city engineer says the stoppage was due to the breaking of the flumes which allowed sand, gravel and mud to seep into the sewer and form obstructions, and lays the blame onto either the contractor, James Kennedy, or the street department. Street Supervisor Jake Raleigh was not given an opportunity to defend himself, but Mike O'Connor, general superintendent for O'Connor, general superintendent for the contractor, when called on, promptly repudiated any responsibility for the breakage of the flumes or the subse-quent obstruction of the sewer, pointquent obstruction of the sewer, pointing out that the city accepted the sewer more than a year ago and that the obstruction therein formed after that time. In spite of this, the street department's private opinion is that the contractor may have cut through the flumes in building the sewer and failed to replace the bottoms, which allowed sand and mud to seep through the sewer joints and form the obstruction. When called, Mr. Kelsey spent two or three moments upon the 'carpet.' Sewers, when finished and accepted by the city, usually become the inheritance of the engineering department, but this

Hall's Motion Carries.

Mr. Fernstrom, whose animus against the board of public works is of the rabid variety, was in favor of letting the board continue to wrestle with the sewer, but Mr. Martin frankly inter-jected that the sewer belongs to the city engineer's department. Mr. Hall backed this up with the emphatic de-mand that it go to the engineering department, where it belongs, and recalled that the city engineer recently had engineer was incumbered with severa amendments to send it to the engineer-ing committee, the committee and the city engineer, or the committee and city engineer, associated with the city at-torney, but finally emerged as originally Neither Mr. Raybould's nor the board's communication blames the contractor for the enforced delay in sewer extension 182.
